One reward of working in public service is a pension—something that’s increasingly hard to come by outside the public sector. If you’re a member of both the University of California Retirement Plan (UCRP) and the California Public Employees’ Retirement System (CalPERS), you may become vested sooner or be able to retire with a higher benefit than if you were a member of just one plan.

To take advantage of these benefits, you’ll need to establish reciprocity between the two plans. This fact sheet outlines how reciprocity works, who is eligible and how to establish it.
Eligibility

To be eligible for UCRP/CalPERS reciprocity, you must be an active or inactive member of both retirement plans. A few other conditions also apply:

- You begin employment with your new system (in a position eligible for membership in UCRP or CalPERS) within 180 days of leaving employment with the other system (in a position eligible for membership in UCRP or CalPERS) and
- You leave the required retirement plan accumulations (for example, UCRP contributions and investment earnings) on deposit with the former plan when you leave (but see tip below for possible exceptions), and
- You elect reciprocity by completing the “Election of Reciprocity” form attached to this factsheet, signing it, and sending it to the Retirement Administration Service Center.

You’re not eligible for reciprocity if you are working for both UC and a CalPERS-covered employer at the same time.

You must retire under both plans on the same date for the benefits of reciprocity to apply.

At UC, the final determination of your eligibility for reciprocal benefits will be made when you apply for UCRP retirement benefits. In addition, your eligibility for reciprocity will be determined by the retirement laws and plan provisions in effect when you change employers and retirement plans.

2016 TIER MEMBERS

Pension Choice participants are UCRP members, and are therefore eligible for reciprocity if they meet all of the conditions above. Savings Choice participants are not members of UCRP and are therefore not eligible for reciprocity.

How Reciprocity Works

UCRP/CalPERS reciprocity may benefit you by allowing you to combine service credit and compensation from both plans.

Note that when you elect UCRP/CalPERS reciprocity, funds are not transferred from one retirement system to the other; you’re subject to the membership requirements and rights of each system. Here’s how reciprocity affects your UCRP benefits.

UCRP SERVICE CREDIT AND COMPENSATION

For periods of reciprocity:

- Your CalPERS service credit will count toward the total service credit you need to become vested in UCRP and eligible for retirement benefits. (Note, though, that CalPERS service credit doesn’t count toward eligibility for UC retiree health coverage.)
- If you earned more while a member of CalPERS than while a member of UCRP, your CalPERS compensation may help boost your UCRP benefit. That’s because your CalPERS compensation can be used in determining your Highest Average Plan Compensation (HAPC)*, which is one of the factors in the formula used to calculate your UCRP retirement benefit. Your HAPC is your highest average monthly full-time equivalent compensation during 36 continuous months of employment as a UCRP member. If you are eligible for reciprocity, UC considers both your UCRP and CalPERS compensation when determining your HAPC.

Tip:
For help estimating your UCRP benefits, go to atyourservice.ucop.edu, select “Sign in to My Accounts,” then choose “Retirement Estimates.” If you don’t have Internet access, contact your Benefits Office for estimates. (If you’re an inactive UCRP member, you should request estimates from the Retirement Administration Service Center at 800-888-8267.)

* If you became a member of UCRP before July 1, 2013, and are eligible for reciprocity, another factor comes into play in determining your HAPC. If you retire from UCRP as an inactive member, your HAPC may also be increased by cost-of-living adjustments (COLAs) for the years after you earn service credit and before you retire. Be aware, though, that COLAs will be added to your HAPC only after you’ve stopped earning in both plans. (In other words, you aren’t eligible for UC retirement COLAs while working for a CalPERS employer.) COLAs are applied July 1 of each year, so the gap between the time you stopped working and your retirement must include July 1 for you to be eligible for a COLA for that year.

Tip:
If you withdrew your CalPERS accumulations and then became a UCRP member, you may be able to redeposit your CalPERS accumulations in order to reestablish (buy back) your CalPERS service credit and membership, and qualify for reciprocity. Contact CalPERS for more information. Only active UCRP members can buy back prior UCRP service.
VACATION AND SICK LEAVE

Working for both UC and other public institutions may allow you to transfer accrued vacation and sick leave between employers, under certain circumstances. The process works differently from reciprocity; you don’t need to fill out the attached form in order to be eligible.

SICK LEAVE

If you leave State of California employment to work for UC, any sick leave you’ve accrued with the state can be transferred to UC as follows:

- If you’re separated from employment status less than 90 calendar days, all accrued sick leave from prior service can be reinstated with UC.
- If you’re separated from employment status 90 or more calendar days but less than six months (180 days), up to 80 hours of accrued sick leave can be reinstated with UC.
- If you’re separated from employment status for six months (180 days) or more, accrued sick leave can’t be reinstated with UC.

VACATION

Your past service with the State of California, Hastings College of the Law, the UC-Managed Department of Energy Laboratories and California State University (and military leave from the same institutions) can be added to your UC service for calculating your vacation accrual rate. (At UC, your vacation is based on your appointment, the number of hours you’re on pay status during the pay period, and the number of years you have worked for UC.) Your service doesn’t need to be continuous to count.

For more information about qualifying vacation and sick leave service, contact your Human Resources Office.

UCRP DISABILITY

- If you have established reciprocity with UCRP (or if you are eligible for reciprocity) and you are eligible for CalPERS disability retirement, you may be entitled to receive retirement benefits from UCRP.
- If you become disabled after you have established reciprocity (or while you are eligible for reciprocity) with CalPERS, contact CalPERS for information about benefits.

How to Establish Reciprocity

Reciprocity doesn’t happen automatically. Each job change between UCRP-covered employment and CalPERS-covered employment is separate, and you need to establish reciprocity for each membership period. As long as you remain eligible under the guidelines listed on page 4, you may establish UCRP/CalPERS reciprocity at any time.

To establish reciprocity with UCRP, you’ll need to complete the attached Election of Reciprocity form (UBEN 157) and send the signed original to the UC Retirement Administration Service Center. (See the form for details.)

The CalPERS reciprocity requirements and benefits may differ from UC’s, so be sure to contact CalPERS before you submit your UCRP reciprocity election form. To learn more, or to establish reciprocity with CalPERS, contact them directly at calpers.ca.gov or 888-225-7377.

UBEN 157 Election of Reciprocity

UCRP and the California Public Employees’ Retirement System (CalPERS) provide reciprocal benefits to ensure continuity of retirement benefits for members who transfer between the two retirement plans under certain circumstances. Please note that the reciprocal agreement applies to UCRP benefits only; it does not apply to eligibility for health coverage after retirement.

Complete this form if you want to elect reciprocity between UCRP and CalPERS. To be eligible for reciprocity, you must:

- be an active or inactive member of both retirement systems,
- begin employment in a position eligible for membership in UCRP or CalPERS within 180 days of leaving employment in a position eligible for membership in the other plan, and
- leave (or have left or redeposited, if eligible) retirement plan contributions (if any) on deposit with the former system.

Please photocopy this form for your records and send the signed original to UC Retirement Administration Service Center.
